“I never expected to become so passionate about politics. Alvernia offers countless interesting opportunities, including internships and field experiences that I never imagined I’d have the opportunity to do. I’m so glad I came to Alvernia!”—Emily Berret ’11, White House Intern-Fall 2010

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS IN BRIEF

Politics pervades every facet of our lives. Students who study political science are involved in an inquiry into the nature, use, and distribution of power; the source of political authority; and the on-going pursuit of justice in societies. The Political Science curriculum at Alvernia University covers a broad range of issues in practical politics and political theory ultimately centering around the questions of Justice, the purpose of government, and the responsibilities of citizenship. Students receive basic and advanced instruction in American government and international relations. Students combine a theoretical background in political science with a practical understanding of political institutions and events.

ACADEMIC QUALITY

The Political Science program has five main goals:

- To help students understand the nature of politics.
- To improve student knowledge and appreciation of various counties, governments, and political movements.
- To enable students to analyze trends and patterns in politics.
- To emphasize policy issues so that students become well-informed democratic citizens who are able to evaluate governmental policies and world events.
- To produce students who think critically and originally about political problems and the world around them, and who are able to communicate their views and opinions effectively.

Faculty members serve as mentors to students and assist them in preparing for future careers through an active internship program. Past interns have worked in the White House, the Department of Justice, and the Terrorism Research Center, as well as in a variety of public agencies, private corporations, and non-profit groups.

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

The Political Science Club supports the University’s mission statement by expanding students’ knowledge of and participation in politics at the state, local, and national levels. They are committed to raising political awareness and serving the community. The POSCI members meet to discuss political issues and events, to host or see speakers, and to become actively involved in debates, including Mock Trials and Model United Nations. Membership is open to anyone at Alvernia University interested in politics or political issues.

CAREER SUCCESS

Students who complete the Political Science program are able to pursue careers in law, government service, public policy or planning, journalism, political activism, non-profit organizations, management, teaching, bureaucracy, diplomatic service, or any field that requires excellent communication and analytical skills. Graduates have continued their education in graduate programs at institutions including Lehigh University, University of Pittsburgh, Villanova University, West Chester University of Pennsylvania, and Widener University.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

- Advocate
- Analyst
- Campaign Manager
- Chamber of Commerce Manager
- Community Relations Director
- Diplomat
- Environmental Policy Analyst
- Foreign Correspondent
- Foreign Service Office
- Government Intelligence Analyst
- International Business Specialist
- International Trade Specialist
- Judge
- Labor Relations Specialist
- Lawyer
- Lobbyist
- Manager
- Political Pollster
- Researcher
- Writer/Speech Writer
CURRICULUM OVERVIEW

Bachelor Degree Requirements (30 Credits)
POS 101 Introduction to Political Science
POS 111 American Democratic Government
POS 212 Comparative Politics  -OR-
POS 225 Contemporary World Affairs
POS 424 History of Political Thought
POS 425 Research Seminar
5 elective courses in Political Science

Additionally, it is recommended that students complete an internship at the local, state, or national level. Students may earn from 3-12 credits through the internship experience.

Political Science majors are encouraged to take complementary courses in history, philosophy, English, and communications.

Minor Degree Requirements (18 Credits)
Adding a political science minor to a student’s course of study gives that student an understanding of the contemporary world and of important policy issues. The program allows students to achieve a minor through a flexible course of study that requires 18 total hours. A maximum of 6 hours may be attained through an internship experience.

Political Science Electives
POS 221 American Political Parties
POS 317 The Presidency
POS 318 The Legislative Process
POS 331 Constitutional Law
POS 408 American Foreign Policy
POS 430 Internship

In addition, the POS courses are supplemented with "special topics" courses. Some examples of courses offered in the past five years are:

American Studies: Culture Wars
Cold War America
History of Patriotism
International Crises
Military History
Peace and Justice
Religion, War and Politics
Reporting in the Middle East

CONTACT INFORMATION

Dr. Victoria Williams
Humanities Department Chair
Associate Professor of Political Science
1-610-796-5511
victoria.williams@alvernia.edu

Office of Admissions
1-610-796-8269
admissions@alvernia.edu